

“Ya venimos cual hermanos”

A photograph of a church service. In the foreground, four men are walking down a central aisle. The man on the far left is wearing a light green shirt and dark trousers. The man next to him is wearing a white shirt, a striped tie, and dark trousers. The man next to him is wearing a white shirt, a dark tie, and dark trousers. The man on the far right is wearing a white shirt, a patterned tie, and khaki trousers. They are all looking down or slightly to the side. In the background, other people are seated in folding chairs, some looking towards the front. The floor is covered with a patterned carpet. On the left side of the frame, there is a stack of gold-colored plates or trays on a table.

Ya venimos, cual hermanos,
a la Cena de Señor.
¡Congreguémonos cristianos,
respirando tierno amor!

En memoria de su muerte,
y la sangre que vertió.
Celebremos el
banquete,
que en su amor nos
ordenó.

Recordando las angustias,
que por nos sufrió el Señor.
Dividida está nuestra alma,
entre el
gozo y
el dolor.

Invoquemos la presencia,
del divino Redentor.
Que nos mire con clemencia,
y nos llene de su amor.
(Amén)
